

Job Dispatching

Send out job information, track progress, and manage workloads all in near real-time

Clarity is critical when it comes to successfully managing employee workloads. Business owners play the role of puppeteer, as they pull the strings behind the scenes, constantly coordinating and adjusting as new workflow issues arise.

Job dispatching provides the tools needed to remain aware of what employees are doing once they leave the office. Instantly update the status of orders from the field, shedding light on job statuses and workloads. View the history of all jobs completed with detailed information collected from workers at job sites. Create and dispatch work orders to employees in the field for deliveries, service calls, or any other type of task. Work order information is available nearly instantly and sent to the mobile employee's phone or tablet.

Key Features

- Send job information out, track progress, and manage workloads all in near real-time
- Streamline daily tasks for faster, accurate billing
- Automate scheduled work orders and allocate them logically

Our application benefits users by making it easy to coordinate tasks with employees operating in the field. Efficient dispatching can improve everything from accounting to customer service. Job dispatching can streamline your entire workflow process, revolutionizing the way your business operates.
